VERBAL TILTING ENLIVENS TRIAL OF BERT BOWER

The most interesting feature of yesterday's proceedings in the George A. (Bert) Bower trial in the federal court, was the testimony furnished by Mrs. David B. Oldbury, a witness for the prosecution. Mrs. Oldbury, who lives on Prospect street directly opposite the home of Mrs. Garvie-Evans, sister of Victoria Mortenson, the part Hawaiian girl who is the prosecution's principal witness in the charge of adultery on which Bower is now being tried, told of various visits which the defendant had paid to the house during the winter of 1912-13. From her laud, which commands an unobstructed view of the Evans property, she said she had repeatedly seen Bower enter and leave the property.

A barn on the Evans lot opening upon Prospect street, was, according to Mrs. Oldbury, a favorite rendezvous for Bower and the Mortenson girl. On two occasions she averred, Bower had been signaled from the barn door by the girl, and the two had spent an hour or more together in the structure. On another occasion, the witness testified, the two had occupied Bower's automobile as it stood on the street in front of the barn, and oblivious or indifferent to their exposed position had indulged in an osculatory orgy from about 2 o'clock in the afternoon until dark. "It was most disgusting," the witness characterized this exercise, under cross-examination.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Oldbury, by Attorney Leon M. Straus, produced some fireworks in way of verbal tilting, that was much appreciated by those present in the court room. The witness was very positive in her statements that Bower and the girl had remained in the barn during his visits there, but she was highly indignant at Straus' intimation that she had spent an undue amount of time in watching the neighboring property. "Of course I have nothing else to do!" she flung out sarcastically at the attorney.

Some of the clashes were highly humorous, and audible ripples of mirth went unrequited, while at times the court preserved his dignity behind the screen of law tones on the front of his desk. At 15 minutes to 4 o'clock, the attorneys for the defendant undertook to prove by the stenographic notes of the first trial, that Mrs. Oldbury had at that time stated that she had witnessed Bower's visit to the barn on one occasion, whereas yesterday she claimed to have done so on at least two occasions. Pending the production of the stenographer's notes, the court adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Just after the adjournment, Stenographer O. F. Soares located the testimony in question which supported the contention of the witness.

The cross-examination of the Mortenson girl, which preceded the taking of Mrs. Oldbury's testimony, brought out practically nothing new.

SALESMANSHIP CLASS AT Y.M.C.A. OPENS

Outlining the various steps in a sale, J. T. Warren, the instructor of the "salesmanship" class, opened the work of the class at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. The discussions brought out the steps to secure attention, inspire confidence, create desire and prompt action on the part of the customer. "Most lost sales occur because the salesman is not able to analyze his methods and discover the weak step in his selling talk," said Mr. Warren. "There are five reasons which lead to buying and every customer buys because of one or more of these reasons. These are: Desire for money gain, gain of utility, satisfaction of pride, satisfaction of caution or a yielding of weakness. It is the art of the salesman to be able to quickly discover which one or more of these reasons will prompt his customer to make the purchase and then emphasize arguments bearing on that reason during his talk."

A. H. Jones of the Hawaiian Trust Company gave an excellent talk before the class on some of the selling methods which were effective for a solicitor.

LIQUOR BOARD MEETS

At the meeting of the liquor license commission, yesterday afternoon, no action was taken on the several important matters pending, owing to the absence of the chairman, A. L. Castle. E. G. Duisenberg had addressed a communication to the board asking its interpretation of a "property-owner," and J. T. Scully, manager of the Waikiki Inn, had applied for an extension of his liquor selling privilege. H. Sadyayaku will be permitted to sell a half interest in the Prost Saloon, provided he secured the consent of a majority of the property-owners within a radius of 250 feet of the place. The request of William Larsen for a second class license at Puuloa was turned over to Inspector W. P. Fennell.

DEATHS

OPUNUI—In Honolulu, March 20, Abraham Opunui, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Opunui in his fourth year. Funeral was from the family residence, School near Fort street, this morning, at 11 o'clock, thence to the Hanalei cemetery.

A meeting of the members of the Daughters of Hawaii has been called for Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. A. Coney, Richards street. There will be a discussion of the plans which now are being made for the celebration of Kamehameha Day.

NEEDY WOMEN TO GET ASSISTANCE FROM CHARITIES

Needy women of many nationalities in Honolulu, who are possessed of an earning capacity, but who are forced to remain at home and take care of their children, will be provided with employment netting a substantial return if a project now being undertaken by the Associated Charities materializes. The plan, as explained this morning by Assistant Manager Mrs. Alice C. Jordan, includes the broadening of the scope of the "Home Industry" department of the organization which has been one of the features of the charities for the past several years.

"The majority of these women who are forced to stay at home are possessed of considerable earning capacity from the fact that they are experts with the needle," said Mrs. Jordan. "It now is the plan of the Associated Charities to secure for these women as much work of this kind as possible. The office will at any time be glad to take orders from tourists, army people and townfolk for work of this kind, and they will have the satisfaction of not only having it well done at a reasonable cost, but of knowing that at the same time they are helping some one in need. We would consider it a favor if persons wishing work of this kind would telephone 2253 and place their orders with this office."

The charities has carried on home industrial work on a small scale for several years, and has found that in many cases it has greatly relieved the conditions caused by needy women, although willing and able to work, having to remain in their homes to care for their children. It is the idea of the association to greatly broaden the scope and to start a general campaign among tourists, army people and other residents of Honolulu to secure work of this kind.

CALDWELL REJECTS BIDS.

All the bids submitted last Monday for three homestead roads were rejected yesterday by Superintendent J. W. Caldwell of the public works department, while the contract for the construction of the Puukapu homestead road at South Koolala was awarded to the Arioli Brothers, on their tender of $21,000. This highway is to be three and one-half miles in length, extending from Waimea village to the end of the belt road, and will be 12 feet wide, on an 8-inch rock sub-base. The bids for the Kulaimano and Kaapoko homestead roads were thrown out because the bidders did not conform to the regulations required in the specifications. Those on the Oloa summer lots were rejected because the figures at least in part, were considered too high.

Aspirants for antlers to the number of 20 this evening will be initiated into the mysteries of the local lodge of Elks.
